Adjunct Instructor of Anthropology or Sociology

Wofford College invites applications for an adjunct instructor of anthropology or sociology who is focused on student success and excited to join a community committed to preparing thought leaders.

EXPECTATIONS

Exceptional undergraduate teaching is the priority at Wofford. Competitive applicants will have teaching experience and be prepared to convey to students their deep commitment to their area of expertise through compelling teaching. The person selected for this position will teach three or four in-person courses on campus during the fall 2024 semester. These will be 100- and 200-level courses. Compensation is regionally competitive. A furnished apartment near campus may be available.

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants with a Ph.D. in anthropology and sociology at the time of appointment are prioritized. Candidates with a Ph.D. or master's degree in a related field plus a minimum of 18 graduate credit hours in anthropology or sociology will be considered.

APPLICATION

Application materials should be submitted to ANTH-SOC@wofford.edu in a single email attachment. Application materials include: (1) a cover letter stating your interest in this position along with a description of your current position and your scholarly interests, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) transcript showing graduate school credits and courses (An unofficial transcript is sufficient at the time of application; however, an official transcript will be required if the application advances), and (4) contact information for three professional references. No letters of reference are needed at this stage. Review of applications will begin April 21, 2024, and continue until the position is filled. Questions about the position, housing or other matters can be directed to Dr. Cynthia Fowler (ANTH-SOC@wofford.edu).
